The Eight Belting Republican State Senators.

It is needless to say that the whole State of Ohio was rudely shocked at the announcement made that eight Senators, elected as Republicans, had bolted against the nominees of a caucus, into which they had gone and participated and afterwards formed a coalition with the Democratic Senators, part of the agreement with said Democratic Senators being that a Democrat should be made a clerk in an overwhelming Republican Senate, setting aside the caucus nominee, who was the daughter of a dead Union soldier, and against whom nothing could be said whatever, she being thoroughly qualified to perform the duties of the office. The complaint of these gentlemen consists wholly that thirteen other Republican Senators had formed a "combine" to control, in their own interests, the several offices of the Senate. Now how much better or different are they from the 13 when they form a "combine" with their political enemies to not only elect a Democratic clerk in a Republican Senate, but to control the other offices in their own interests as far as they dare go?

They certainly are to be condemned for entering into bargains at all with the enemies of their party to secure a few paltry offices and for spite work. Ample time has been had to fully consider the matter, and to thoroughly digest the reasons given by the eight kicking Senators in the card issued by them last week, and we must say we do not find one justifiable excuse for their wholly unwarranted action. Having gone into the caucus they were honorably bound to stand by it, especially as no charge of fraud can be made against their fellow Senators or the successful candidates of the caucus, and neither can anything be said against the nominees as to character or fitness. Evidently the Democratic Senators would have nothing to do with them unless they could share in the "spoils." So the bolting Senators had to sell out their own party friends to accomplish their spite work. The "bolters" are certainly entitled to all the credit such a disgraceful bargain may give them. The fact is their so-called defense is exceedingly thin. It is gratifying to know that the Republican press over the State have spoken in so pronounced a manner against the treacherous conduct of these contemptible kickers. It is to be hoped the constituents of these gentlemen will see that they are relegated to private life when their terms end and let them bring forth works meet for repentance before trusting them again in any position.

Spain has commenced making preparations for the celebration of the discovery of America by Columbus four years hence. She has already issued invitations that representatives of the United States and of all the Spanish American republics should co-operate. All the governments of Europe are also invited to send delegates. The festivities will continue for one week, and will include the unveiling of a statue of Columbus at Havana.

There has never been any real state-manship in the Republican party. It has never had sense enough to acknowledge that the Southern people committed no crime whatever in engaging in a defensive war to establish what they conscientiously held to be the true construction of the federal Constitution.—Richmond, (Va.) Dispatch, Dem.

It would never do to criticize the above or we would be accused of "waving the bloody shirt."

The Postmaster General makes the following suggestion to the public: "Have your name and address printed on the left corner of all mail matter. This will insure its immediate return to you for correction if improperly addressed or insufficiently paid, and if not called for at the end of its destination it can be returned without going to the dead letter office."

General Robert E. Schenck's definition of a Mugwump is as follows: "He is a scab on the rear end of Democracy. The Democracy will rub it and smooth it down for awhile and sometimes scratch it, but eventually sit down upon it."

The Times-Star utters the following true sentiment: "The Republican party of Ohio should be entirely independent of the saloon power, indifferent to its desires and its threats, in dealing with the liquor question."

Despite Cleveland's protestations that an account of the surplus the country was going to the damnation-how-were, the holiday trade was never better than that just experienced.

That was a significant remark of Dr. McGlynn that "those who may be free-traders can not ignore the fact that Great Britain is the land most cursed with pauperism."

Positions are in circulation and will be presented to the Ohio Legislature early for a reduction of railroad fares to 10 cents per mile.

Judge Reddick, of Gallipolis, is mentioned as a candidate for Representative in Congress.

Hon. J. J. Fugate has been appointed a member of the committee of agriculture by Speaker Carlisle.

Hon. Jonah Britton, Representative from this county, has been appointed a member of Committee on Military Affairs by Speaker Lampson.

Capt. A. H. Mattox, of Cincinnati, and Hon. Dan. J. Ryan, of Portsmouth, are already in the field as candidates for Secretary of State on the Republican ticket this fall.

John L. Sullivan, the pugilist, is nothing more nor less than a low and vulgar brute, and the Queen of England certainly showed her good sense in sending a severe and drastic letter to the Prince of Wales for giving him a reception.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade for 1887 shows a decrease of 200 in the number of failures, but an increase in liabilities of $53,000,000. In 1887 there were 9,634 failures, and $167,560,944 liabilities, while in 1886 the failures were 9,884 with liabilities amounting to $114,571,119. The failures in the United States averaged one in every 111 persons.

RAINSBORO.

January 10th, 1888.

George K. Rhoades visited Chillicothe the latter part of last week.

A. W. Milburn and wife, of Belfast, visited friends here and at Newell's Mill last week.

Warren Taylor, of Westboro, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ellen Redkey, a few days since.

Isaac Upp and wife, of Harpers, have been visiting friends in this vicinity since last Friday.

O. B. Rhoades visited his brother-in-law, John Santer, near Centerfield last Friday, and reports him quite sick with malarial fever.

Mrs. Eva Hodge, of Sabina, is the guest of James E. Upp and family.

Rev. J. H. Davis, of Martinsville, visited his parents and other friends here Thursday and Friday.

Cure your cough with Garrett's Red Band Cough Cure. Sold by W. J. Redkey and C. W. West.

J. H. Davis, sr., and wife were guests of R. L. Watts and family, of Marshall, Sunday.

Misses Titia Gall and Bell Olders, of Belfast, were guests of Miss Clara Pule last week.

The men employed to dig the public well struck solid rock at the depth of 28 feet and not being prepared to blast the rock it was decided to wall the well and if the vein already struck failed to furnish an ample supply of water they would employ a man to drill the rock by machinery. On account of bad weather the wall has not yet been completed.

Zach Sanders is said to be arranging to return to his home in Indiana the latter part of this week.

Miss Lillie Scott, of Greenfield, is here among friends.

O. N. Sams, son of A. J. Sams, near Newell's Mill, has gone to Hillsboro and opened up a law office as announced in the county papers of last week over Sayler's jewelry store. He is a young man of good habits and unblemished character, and having been at considerable expense and pains to qualify himself for his chosen profession we doubt not he will merit and in due time receive a liberal share of legal business of the county.

Charles Gossett and wife, of Ross county, are here attending the funeral of his sister.

Aunt Phoebe Milburn has recovered from her recent spell of sickness and returned to her home at Carmel.

William Daniels and Samuel Wolf went to Columbus to attend the inauguration of Gov. Foraker.

Miss Ida Gossett was born in Paint township, January 10th, 1861, and spent the happy hours of girlhood in this village where by her kind and loving disposition she won the esteem of her associates and friends. At the early age of eight years she became a member of a children's class in the M. E. Church, of which the writer was leader for two and a half years, and the record of her attendance which is still preserved shows a promptness seldom equaled by those of riper years. Nine years ago she went to live with her grandmother in Ross county and remained there until about two months since when, on account of failing health from consumption she was brought home where she was nursed and cared for with all the tenderness that parental love could devise or a skilled physician suggest, but the deep-seated disease with relentless force went steadily on until four o'clock yesterday morning when her work ceased and Ida Gossett was numbered with the dead. Funeral services in charge of J. I. Taggart were held at the family residence to-day at 10 a. m. after which the remains were laid to rest in the Hartman cemetery.

Miss Mattie Frump has gone to New Martinsburg to spend a while.

Dr. Glenn's little child has been very sick for the past few days, but is some better.

Mrs. Malinda has returned to London for a short stay. Her son, J. B. Williams, accompanied her.

BURLINGTON.

boy. To A. Lowman and wife, Jan. 6th, a daughter.

Mrs. Kate Beeson, of Hillsboro, visited her sister, Mrs. Woolas, at this place last Friday.

Mrs. Emma Shafer and baby, of near Hillsboro, visited her parents at this place last week.

Rev. Williamson, of Marathos, preached a very able sermon at the church here last Sunday.

Mrs. Holiday and daughters, Maggie and Lizzie, of Westboro, visited at Jan. Newell's recently.

Meedames Hunter and Pugh, of Fairview, and Aunt Polly Strange, of near there, are all on the sick list.

Mrs. Maggie Anderson and son returned to their home in Muncie, Ind., last week, after several weeks' stay with relatives here.

S. R. and J. S. Oldaker left here Friday morning for the South. They will visit relatives and friends in Tennessee and Kentucky during their travels.

Philip Roush and family, who moved from here to Ravens, Kan., about a year ago, returned last Saturday. Mr. R. thinks more of Ohio than he does of Kansas.

LYNCHBURG.

January 10th, 1888.

Thomas Duvall is quite sick. Los Murphy has gone to St. Louis to work in a livery stable.

Centennial Lodge initiated two candidates last Thursday night.

E. A. Mosier, of Hillsboro, transacted business here last Saturday.

Mrs. J. A. Bering spent a few days last week visiting in the Queen City.

Miss Penny, of Covington, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. J. W. Ohlen.

Mr. David Troutwine spent the holidays with relatives at Defiance, O.

Wm. Clark, of New Vienna, made a flying visit to our village last Friday.

H. G. Murphy returned last Tuesday from a holiday visit to Magnolia Springs.

Miss Rosa Whitaker, of Clermont county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. M. Davis.

What an improvement in the News-Herald. Why, we hardly knew it full of home news.

The report of Lynchburg Lodge I. O. O. F. shows receipts during the past year amounting to $1,200, and expenses for all purposes $1,150.

Hugh Murphy has resigned the position of book-keeper in the bank on account of failing health, and W. L. Statner has been elected to the position.

No town in the country has better facilities for the establishment of manufacturing than Lynchburg. It has an abundance of water with Turtle Creek on one side and East Fork on the other. Would it not be well for our citizens to encourage the establishment of manufacturing interests in our city? Nothing builds up a town so fast or is of more benefit to its mercantile trade.

FOLSON.

January 10th, 1888.

Prayer meeting next Sunday night at the church.

W. T. Stanforth treated his friends to a turkey roast Sunday.

Protracted meeting will commence at Union next Monday night.

John Kane, of Wheat Ridge, Adams county, will soon take up his abode here.

Miss Mattie Shannon, of this place, spent last week with friends in the Hill City.

M. G. Stanforth visited his sister at Vienna last week, returning home last Thursday.

TAYLORVILLE.

January 9th, 1888.

Mr. Nathan Dunn, of Sardinia, shipped three car loads of hogs from this station last Friday.

Mrs. Cummings, Ida Cummings, Rosa Cummings, Emma Borden and Bell Roberts are on the sick list.

The protracted meeting closed Thursday night last with six additions. Rev. Ham was sick most of the time, but was assisted by Rev. Cummings.

On the day Mr. W. K. Ruble treated his scholars many of the parents visited the school and also received a treat. Rev. Cummings made a good speech, and all went home seemingly happy.

There was a good crowd at the entertainment considering the weather, and everything passed off quietly. Following is the programme:
